

Hoshiyomi Deep Report - Sample

Western Astrology x BaZi x Zi Wei Dou Shu - Selected Chapters

SAMPLE - fictional profile

Prepared for: Aster

Coverage: foundations and selected monthly guidance

How to read this report

Start with the first three chapters — the three-systems overview, the portrait of who you are, and the direction of your life. About ten minutes, no prior knowledge needed.

The rest is reference: turn to a year chapter when a specific year matters, or to the Zi Wei, Four Pillars, or Western astrology chapters for the reasoning behind a conclusion.

The dense later chapters are deliberate — they are the evidence, not the pitch.

The person behind Hoshiyomi

Harry Na — twenty-five years of reading the sky.

He found tarot and Western astrology in high school and has been studying ever since. The longer he studied, the clearer one thing became: what separates a reading that lands from one that does not is not intuition — it is how accurately you calculate.

His other work is founding 株式会社trans-nai (trans-n.ai), an AI company. He spends his days designing systems that make AI reason from facts rather than from impressions.

Hoshiyomi recomputes the sky at the moment you were born from an astronomical ephemeris — down to true solar time and solar terms — because both of those things live in the same person.

"Na" is from Yehe Nara.

His family line runs to the Qing imperial house, and Western astrology, Zi Wei Dou Shu and Four Pillars were simply things the household passed down. He grew up around a way of treating divination not as entertainment but as an instrument people used to decide a life.

So Hoshiyomi will not tell you what you want to hear. What it offers is the most honest answer the calculation produces.

This public sample uses a fictional profile. Paid reports are AI-generated from your charts and include the complete analysis and ten-year timeline.

How the three systems are cross-checked

The complete edition connects three independent systems. Repeated themes are treated as high-confidence signals; contradictions are explained as timing, context, or different layers of personality.

What the full edition adds: chart evidence is cited before interpretation, then translated into strengths, blind spots, relationships, career choices, money patterns, wellbeing, and concrete next steps.

Executive synthesis

The central pattern combines strategic patience with periods of decisive acceleration. The chart favors work that rewards interpretation, system building, and trust. The recurring lesson is to turn sensitivity into a method instead of carrying every signal as a personal burden.

Cross-check: the conclusion is compared with the other two systems. Where they agree, the report identifies a durable life theme; where they differ, it explains which cycle or context activates each expression.

Zi Wei Dou Shu - destiny pattern

The Life, Career, Wealth, Travel, and Wellbeing palaces form a coherent axis: progress comes through visible responsibility, cross-boundary collaboration, and disciplined renewal. The full report reads all twelve palaces, transformations, major stars, supporting stars, and decade cycles.

Practical use: each chapter closes the gap between symbolic language and everyday decisions. Guidance distinguishes what to begin, what to maintain, what to monitor, and what should not be rushed.

Zi Wei Dou Shu - career and wealth

Career growth is strongest when authority follows demonstrated expertise. Wealth accumulates through repeatable value rather than isolated windfalls. Partnership selection matters: roles, incentives, and decision rights should be explicit before momentum builds.

Timing layer: the complete report follows the profile through major cycles, ten annual chapters, and twelve monthly periods per year, so a theme is never presented without a sense of when it is most relevant.

BaZi - structure and useful elements

The Day Master is interpreted through season, roots, combinations, and the balance of the ten gods. The useful-element discussion does not reduce the chart to a single lucky color; it translates elemental balance into decisions about pace, environment, collaborators, and recovery.

BaZi - temperament and relationships

Strong perception supports empathy and pattern recognition, but can also delay boundaries. In close relationships, naming expectations early prevents quiet over-functioning. The complete report separates attraction, long-term compatibility, family dynamics, and favorable timing.

Western astrology - core personality

Sun, Moon, Ascendant, chart ruler, angular planets, houses, and major aspects are synthesized rather than listed. The sample profile shows a public style that is composed and exploratory, with a private need for emotional clarity and protected thinking time.

Western astrology - vocation and growth

The vocational signature favors translating complexity for others. Growth comes from publishing a point of view, building durable tools, and accepting measured visibility. The full chapter discusses every planet, house emphasis, aspect pattern, and developmental tension.

Three-system convergence

All three systems emphasize a move from private mastery to public contribution. The practical recommendation is a two-track plan: protect a stable base while testing one visible, measurable initiative at a time.

Selected year - strategic overview

This example year begins with consolidation, opens into a collaboration window, and ends with a clearer authority structure. The paid edition contains one full chapter for every year, integrating natal promise, major cycles, annual influences, and month-level timing.

Selected month-by-month guidance

January: simplify commitments and close old loops. February: research and negotiate. March: present a proposal. April: protect energy and revise. May: a favorable window for agreement. June: verify details before expanding. The complete edition continues through all twelve months with precise solar-term periods.

Decision calendar

Use strong months for launches, interviews, agreements, and asking for support. Use quieter months for health, review, documentation, and relationship repair. Choose one listed month now and put its matching action on the calendar.
